- 20 October (Friday) is a school holiday, and students do not need to come to school.

3. Students and Parents Should Remain Vigilant in Inclement Weather:

Although Hong Kong has entered the autumn season, the typhoon and rainy season seems to be ongoing. Students and parents should continue to remain vigilant in inclement weather. The Education Bureau reminds students and parents that when tropical cyclones or heavy rain affect Hong Kong, the Education Bureau will announce school suspension arrangements based on the latest weather information and the conditions of roads, slopes, and transportation. The announcements will be made through the following channels: radio and television stations, government press releases, the Education Bureau website, the Education Bureau inquiry hotline, or the mobile application "HKSARG Notify Me." Students and parents are also advised to refer to the Education Bureau's announcements to understand the different arrangements for classes during tropical cyclones and heavy rain and make necessary preparations.
